THE WEATHER.

The daily record of the thermometer in this city for yesterday, as reported by C. W. Brandon, was as follows: 7 a. m., 26 degrees above; 12 m., 38 degrees above; 4 p. m., 41 degrees above; 8 p. m., 36 degrees above.

ABOUT THE CITY.

The regular meeting of the A. O. H. will be held to-night in the Standard hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doran and daughter Josephine returned from Butte last night.

Each day a new saloon is opened. The latest is on Park avenue below Tripp's writing academy.

Several members of the local camp of the P. O. S. of A., went to Butte yesterday to attend the state camp.

Matt Hoevich has sold his interest in the Mountain View saloon to his partner, Geo. Meli, who will conduct the business in future.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Matthews entertained a number of young ladies and gentlemen at their residence on Park avenue in honor of Miss Coleman of Deer Lodge.

A large number of the members of the Anaconda fire department went to Butte on the afternoon train yesterday to attend the annual ball of the Butte department last night.

Tom McLeod, one of the managers of the Missoula Mercantile company's immense business, is in the city on a brief visit. This is Mr. McLeod's first visit to the Smelter City.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Rockefeller, No. 404 Oak street, on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is desired that there be a good attendance.

The chief of police is playing havoc with the unlicensed dogs of the city. One day recently he had 15 homeless curs killed, and the good work goes on daily. Those who value their dogs should secure a license for them without delay.

Nearly all the business houses of the city were closed yesterday and the people generally took a holiday in honor of George Washington. Flags floated from staffs on all the public buildings and many of the business houses of the city.

A man named Alex Simpson, with a flying artillery in his head, early yesterday morning smashed a dozen windows in Chinatown and ran less than half dressed, yelling like a Comanche Indian, through the streets of the town. He led the police a merry chase before he was captured.

John Lynch fell from a moving street car and when picked up was insensible. He was carried into the Milwaukee beer hall and medical attendance summoned. When he recovered consciousness he was taken to the Sisters' hospital. Many persons are exceedingly careless about jumping on and off moving cars; it seems that a few people will require to be killed before the dangerous practices are discontinued.

Notice to Knights of Labor.

Any member found patronizing hotels, restaurants, boarding houses or laundries that employ Chinese will be fined five dollars ($5) and suspended until fine is paid. By order of L. A. No. 3711.

JOSEPH WICKERT, JOHN BARRY, R. S. M. W.

Anaconda Workmen's Union Meets at Mattie building hall every Tuesday at 7:30. Members are requested to attend. Those desiring membership should come at 8 p. m. All invited.

P. SOLENSON, President.

M. B. SPEER, Recording Secretary.

Mrs. L. B. Craig, the neat and fashionable dressmaker, will be found at 205 Cedar street, next door to the writing school. Call and see her. All work guaranteed.

All persons indebted to me will please settle their accounts by the 20th of this month. All accounts not settled on that date will be given for collection. Respectfully, M. S. ASCHMEIN.

THE LOAFERS' CLUB.

Its Members Talk Sense and Non-sense.

A majority of the members of the Loafers' club, when they convened last evening, wore a somewhat dejected look, and were, to all appearances, rather the worse for wear. A few of them, however, presented their customary appearance, and these few smiled in a superior manner at the Savant, as he wearily stretched his arms above his head and extended his nether limbs before him to their fullest length. "Great Allah, this is tough," exclaimed he, with a most suggestive yawn. "This dizzy whirl of society life is enough to wear out any man. The approach of Lent is all that will save me from disintegration. And, speaking of disintegration, reminds me," continued the Savant, with a look full of meaning cast at the Yankee, who had assumed an attitude of utter dejection behind the stove; "yes, it reminds me forcibly that some of us are growing old without any sure protection against temptation. We ought to marry. (Loud applause from the president.) Now, a wedding, well conducted, is a delightful affair. (Applause from the Sport.) A wedding is something which no family should be without. It is something which broadens the scope of a man's life, and opens to him a measure of happiness which is as near heaven as we ever get on this side of Jordan. I can truly say that I heartily approve of weddings. In fact I mean to have one of my own one of these days. But, after all, a wedding is an affair that should not be indulged in too frequently. I believe that I have had enough for a year."

With another yawn, the Savant subsided, and the President, after congratulating the club upon their attendance at the temperance meeting, called the assembly to order. After the usual opening exercises, the Robber stated that he desired to present for membership his Side Partner, who, he declared, possesses all the qualifications necessary for initiation into the Loafers' club. "My Side Partner's knowledge of French is somewhat limited," said the Robber, "but as far as it goes it is very thorough. If you could only hear him say 'boo-zhoo, mussoo' there would be no doubt in your minds as to his eligibility."

The Sport then proposed another new member. "The Scotchman," said he, "is well-known to you all as a citizen of good repute and of tolerable behavior. He is a desirable man for our work of local reform, and is no less interested in the marriage question than the Savant. In fact, it is rumored that he has aspirations that way himself. He is a man of wide experience, and, when occasion demands, can tell a pretty good fish story." The Masher brought out the goat and the Scotchman was soon butted into the first degree of Loafers.

With awkward grace and earnest face of effort-bought repose.

With troubled ease and shaking knees,

The president arose.

"The question which we will consider to-night," said he, is perhaps the most important one that has come before the society since its organization. There are in this city young men who are fast acquiring the habits of frequenting the saloons and gambling houses, simply because they have no other place to spend their evenings. A public library and reading room would be a means of great benefit to the city, for it would mean the reclaiming of these young men from saloon and gaming table, and the money which they leave in those places would be diverted to legitimate channels. There are in Anaconda probably more young men, and old, of literary tastes, than is generally believed. There are boys and girls growing up here with a host of evil influences about them, and almost no elevating influence outside their homes. The city owes it to these young men and to the children to provide for them a good public library. Anaconda takes just pride in her schools, but they can be made ten times more effective if supplemented by a public library. There is no influence in a community more elevating and refining than a well selected and well arranged public library.

"This city is empowered by statute to levy, if it sees fit, a library tax. That such a levy will be a permanent benefit to the city, who will deny? Good streets we must have, of course, but more essential to the permanent welfare of the city, and the better calculated to make Anaconda the city we would all like to see it, is a public library and reading room. If the city is not willing or not able to take up this matter, a library association should be organized at once to inaugurate the work and see that it is properly carried out."

"Let this society use its influence toward setting this scheme in motion and good results will then follow." A hearty round of applause greeted the president as he closed and the meeting adjourned after listening to an original duet by the Masher and the Yankee upon "George Washington's Career."

A Lumberman's Rendezvous.

This term might be applied to Stevens Point, located on the Wisconsin Central line, at the gateway to the vast forest region which extends north to Lake Superior, a distance of 200 miles without a break, on account of its vast lumber interests. The Wisconsin river, to which the lumbermen have given the familiar and somewhat affectionate title of "Old Wisconsin," not alone acts as a lumber feeder to the city by furnishing through its numerous tributaries an outlet for thousands of acres of pine in the upper country, but it furnishes a water power that is second to that only of Neenah and Menasha, which cities are also located on the "Central." Millions of feet of lumber are cut every year, giving employment to hundreds of men. In addition to the lumber trade, it has numerous other manufacturing industries; it is here where the large car shops of the Wisconsin Central line are located.

For tickets, maps, pamphlets and full information apply to G. F. McNeill, G. P. & T. A., Minneapolis, Minn., or to James C. Pond, G. P. & T. A., Chicago, Ill.

Could steal but Couldn't Lie.

From the Epoch.

"We don't think our conductors are turning in all the fares they collect," said the manager of a street-car line to one of his oldest employees. "You don't knock down, do you?"

"Yes, sir."

"You do! Why didn't you deny it?"

"Why, sir, my mother always taught me to despise a liar."

The Better Off of the Two.

From the Somerville Journal.

The man who is always anticipating happiness to-morrow is a good deal better off, anyway, than the man who spends his time thinking how wretched he was day before yesterday.

SHAMEFUL.

Street Crossings That No One Can Cross.

Much complaint is heard about the condition of the street crossings. In many places the streets are absolutely impassable this soft weather. Directly in front of the postoffice, at the corner of Park avenue and Main street, for days at a time people are confronted by a lake of mud and water a foot deep. Very often of late ladies and children have found it impossible to cross this miserable pond without wading in water and slush to their knees. The only way for this water to escape is by crossing Park avenue and flowing into the cellarway recently constructed for Mrs. Barry. Some time ago Mrs. Barry notified some members of the city council that the torrent of water which was pouring into this cellar was ruining the store walls and foundation and that if the water was not taken care of she would sue the city for damages. At the corner of Third and Oak streets at every thaw or fall of rain the street is flooded and it is impossible to cross in any direction without almost swimming. It is an abominable condition of affairs and the city council should do something toward rectifying it.

BOZEMAN BRIEFS.

Horses Afflicted With Glanders—The Electric Light Plant Sold.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

BOZEMAN, Feb. 21.—The Caroline Gage company begin a week's engagement to-morrow night in the opera house here. The company will open in the "Honey-moon," a very pretty melodrama. Miss Gage and her former company opened the Bozeman opera house, playing a successful week here, a little more than a year ago.

Twelve head of horses, afflicted with the glanders, were killed near here a few days ago by order of the state veterinary surgeon. They were owned by Flathead valley farmers. Other stock have been quarantined, there being still considerable doubt as to the exact nature of the malady.

Architect Hancock has been accorded the contract for the new Bozeman school house, and is now engaged upon the plans.

The sale of the electric light plant has been consummated. Butte parties entering into control.

F. J. Nesbitt, recently appointed postmaster of Bozeman, is making preparations to take possession of the office. Mr. Nesbitt is an expert accountant and office man and should make a good postmaster.

The new free reading room and coffee house is so far a success, its patronage steadily increasing. This was opened principally by the receipts realized from the "Deestrick Skule" performance.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

Time-sense is very highly developed in domestic fowls and there are many wild birds, as well as in dogs, horses and other mammals, which keep an accurate account of days of the week and hours of the day, and have, at least, a limited idea of numerical succession and logical sequence.

The Fans are the only people in equatorial Africa who have a currency; they are strong monometallists. The money is of iron, wrought into pieces resembling rusty harpins with flat heads. They are put up in bundles of ten, and a hundred bundles is the market price of a wife.

Well informed lumbermen declare that there is more timber in the forests of Maine today than there was ten years ago, because care has been exercised in the felling of trees during recent years. Only good-sized trees are cut nowadays, the smaller being allowed to stand until they attain a proper growth.

In 1890 the only states that produced more than 1,000,000 pounds of paper daily were New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Ohio, but in 1890 two more states, Maine and Wisconsin, were added to the list. The daily production in New York in 1891 was 3,250,250 pounds, a gain of 319,100 pounds over the previous year.

Stockholders' Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Anaconda Racing association for the election of a board of directors will be held on Monday, March 7, 1892, at 7:30 p. m., at the First National bank, Anaconda, Mont. W. M. THORNTON, Secretary.

LOVE FOR THE MORMONS

How Idaho Republicans Are Running Their Vote Machine.

ARE FRIENDS OF LABORERS

What May Be the Outcome of the Blar Cast Upon the Knights of Labor—A Glorious Outfit.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

BOISE CITY, Feb. 21.—Frank Fenn's argument made before the republican state central committee the other night has elicited considerable unfavorable comment from both republicans and democrats. Mr. Fenn is speaker of the lower branch of the Idaho legislature and has always posed as a stalwart anti-Mormon republican. Mr. Fenn is only adding proof to the fact that the republican party has never been sincere in its professions of dislike for the Mormons and their exercise of the right of franchise. The truth is that the republican leaders think they will meet their Waterloo this fall at the ballot box, unless they can get the entire Mormon element into the republican household.

Dubois is at Washington making the impression that he favors the Franklin bill. The leaders of the party are at home busily engaged indicting Mormons for polygamy and scaring the wits out of them. After this is successfully done the indictments are dismissed upon a promise of their voting the republican ticket.

The Knights of Labor throughout the state are sore and justly, too, over the arrogant manner in which their representatives were ignored by the state republican league. The republican party has never given the labor element decent consideration, it has ever claimed to be labor's warmest friend, while it cracked the whip of tyranny above the laborer's weary head and unpaid toil.

The Knights of Labor in Idaho are men of good common sense. They do not want the earth; they only ask decent recognition and a fair chance to make an honest living for their families and enough to educate their children. When any party gets so low that it seems the horny hand of honest labor; when it cannot cast one kindly look of admiration upon the bronzed brow of toil; when one of
